For Use by Medical Professionals Only

If an employee has a disability and needs an accommodation because of the medical condition or disability, specifically related to COVID-19, the employer must provide a reasonable accommodation, unless the accommodation poses an undue hardship. The following questions are intended to determine effective accommodations. For reasonable accommodation under the ADA, an employee has a disability if he or she has an impairment that substantially limits one or more major life activities or a record of such an impairment.

Please identify the disability or medical condition that would create a greater risk for severe infection or complication, specific to the COVID-19 pandemic:

_____ Cancer
_____ Sickle cell disease
_____ Thalassemia (a type of blood disorder)
_____ Neurologic conditions, such as dementia
_____ Cerebrovascular disease (affects blood vessels and blood supply to the brain)
_____ Hypertension or high blood pressure
_____ Immunocompromised state (weakened immune system) from solid organ transplant, bone or bone marrow transplant, immune deficiencies, HIV, use of corticosteroids, or use of other immune weakening medicines
_____ Liver disease
_____ Kidney disease
_____ Cystic fibrosis
_____ Pulmonary fibrosis (having damaged or scarred lung tissues)
_____ Asthma (moderate to severe)
_____ COPD (chronic obstructive pulmonary disease)
_____ Diabetes
_____ Serious heart conditions
_____ Obesity (body mass index [BMI] of 30 or higher)
_____ Other medical condition, factor, or disability not listed (please explain below).

Please provide the specific diagnosis (ICD-10), and how this increases the risk for severe COVID-19 infection or prompts employer consideration?

The Genetic Information Nondiscrimination Act of 2008 (GINA) prohibits employers and other entities covered by GINA Title II from requesting or requiring genetic information of an individual or family member of the individual, except as specifically allowed by this law. To comply with this law, we are asking that you not provide any genetic information when responding to this request for medical information. “Genetic information,” as defined by GINA, includes an individual’s family medical history, the results of an individual’s or family member’s genetic tests, the fact that an individual or an individual’s family member sought or received genetic services, and genetic information of a fetus carried by an individual or an individual’s family member or an embryo lawfully held by an individual or family member receiving assistive reproductive service.
